in the name of Galileo International Technology, LLC
of the trade mark:

and the consolidated applications for revocation

by European Community, represented by the European Commission

1) On 28 May 2010 I issued a decision in which I stated:

“22) At the hearing it was agreed that GI would be granted four weeks from the date of the issue of this decision in order to suggest alternative specifications based on the findings in this decision. Any such specifications must be within the parameters outlined in the decision. Allowing GI this facility is not to be taken as being tantamount to a general review of the findings of this decision. Any proposed specifications must clearly fall within the parameters of the revised specifications. GI has conceded the revocation in relation to registration no 1319478. Registration no 1319477 is to be revoked in its entirety. Consequently, in relation to these two registrations there is no possibility of amendments to the specifications.”

2) On 22 June 2010 Galileo International Technology, LLC (GI) advised that it did not intend to file any submissions in relation to the above matter. Consequently, my findings will now be implemented (subject to any appeal).

3) The findings are as follows:

Registration no 1319478 is to be limited to reservation services relating to the transport of passengers and of goods by air; all included in Class 39, (as conceded by GI) with effect from 28 July 1995.

Registration no 1419333 is to be limited to computer software for travel and accommodation reservations with effect from 4 March 2005.

Registration no 1419651 is to be limited to:

rental of computer hardware, rental and leasing of computer software, installation, maintenance and updating of computer software; all for use in relation to travel and accommodation reservations* with effect from 19 May 1997.

Registration no 1319477 is revoked in its entirety with effect from 3 March 1995.

Galileo International Technology, LLC is ordered to pay European Community, represented by the European Commission the sum of £3,200. This sum is to be paid within seven days of the expiry of the appeal period or within seven days of the final determination of this case if any appeal against this decision is unsuccessful.

Dated this 2 day of July 2010
